Says: Gen. Grant's report of military oper-Gen. Grant's report of military operations since his appointment as Lieutenant General, will probably accompany the report of the Secretary of War, and be published with that document.

The feeling against England in Washington for allowing the officers and crew of the Shenrandoah to escape, is one of undisguised disgust and hostility. All agree that they must be given up to our authorities under the extradition treaty. No doubt is entertained of our ability to prove from her log book that she took many prizes after being informed of the close of the war.

The interior of the capitol is completely and elaborately prepared for the approaching session. The desks for the Southern members have been replaced.
